Why College?

The world is becoming more competitive.

Higher education will provide a competitive advantage to future job seekers.

Our Mission

At College Trips, we don't think students should settle for just any college; we want them to be inspired by their choice. You can't judge a college by a website. Our goal is to help you find the perfect fit. You'll take the "official tour," but we will also introduce you to former students who will give the inside scoop.

The Perfect Fit

Most of our students already want to go to a good college. But they need to know what kind of school is right for them. Big or small? Urban or rural?

Private or public? Selective or non-selective? You can't get this information from a web site. You have to go there and check it out for yourself.

Past Travelers

"I went on two separate trips. I absolutely loved them and would have gone again just for the experience if my schedule permitted. I also knew people who had no desire going to college until going on a trips. The trips solidified my interest in going to a good college." -Tyrian W., Fordham University

"Attending a campus tour was the most essential part of my college selection process. You cannot make a sound choice in where you are going to spend the next four years of your life unless you take a trip." - Arlen Peterson, CSU Chico

"I had always been excited about going to college. I never really understood the difference between high school and college life until I went on the college trip. Seeing the campuses buzzing with student life convinced me that my hard work in high school was for a real purpose." - Kyleigh De P., UCLA
